

1300 L Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20005 • (202) 842-4227

William Burrus
President

March 2008

Frank A. Romero
Organization Director
(202) 842-4227 (Office)
(202) 216-2634 (Fax)

NATIONAL ORGANIZING SUBCOMMITTEE

Regional Coordinators

Elizabeth "Liz" Powell
Northeast Region

Sharyn M. Stone
Central Region

Resident Officers

Joyce B. Robinson
Research & Education Director

Patricia Williams
Assistant Director, Clerk Division

Sue Carney
Human Relations Director

Judy Beard
Retiree Director

NATIONAL BUSINESS AGENTS

Atlanta Region, Clerk Division

Pat Davis-Weeks
Marie Robbins

Chicago Region, Clerk Division

Lynn Pallas-Barber
Linda Turney

Cincinnati Region, Clerk Division

Shirley McLennan

Dallas Region, Clerk Division

Morline M. Guillory

Denver Region, Clerk Division

Marilyn "Mo" Merow

New York Region, Clerk Division

Elizabeth Swigert

San Francisco Region, Clerk Division

Shirley J. Taylor

Washington, DC Region, Clerk Division

Pamela Richardson
Nancy E. Olumekor

Pacific Area, All Divisions

Nilda R. Chock

Dear Postal Employee:

The responsibilities of work and home often make us feel like we are being pulled in too many directions – helping our children, looking after grandkids, or caring for elderly parents, while working and running a household. And these responsibilities often seem to fall disproportionately on women. The stress takes a toll, but – somehow – working women manage to get it done.

What are the tools that help us “keep it together?” Family & Medical Leave, which gives us the right to take time from work to care for sick family members; the opportunity to use sick leave for dependent care; the right to bid on a schedule that best fits our routine; vacations; job security, and most important – a wage that supports our lifestyle. These and other benefits make our hectic lives just a little easier.

Where do these rights and benefits come from? The American Postal Workers Union – it’s as simple as that.

And that’s why we’re asking you to join. We need you – and you need us. March, Women’s History Month, is a great time to sign up.

Women activists play a powerful role in the APWU, occupying leadership positions and advancing the cause of women while we fight to make life better for all postal workers.

But we can’t do it without you. The decisions we make and the actions we take affect you in a fundamental way: They determine your pay and benefits and the atmosphere at work. They influence the quality of your life.

We need your voice. So join the American Postal Workers Union today. Please complete the enclosed form and return it in the postage-paid envelope.

Join the APWU: We’re Your Union!

Sincerely,

Elizabeth “Liz” Powell
National Organizing Subcommittee

William Burrus
President